

Stewart's small river specimen

We have just heard from accomplished specimen coarse angler Stewart Moss that he has caught another cracking Barbel using our Meteor products. This follows a long line of notable specimen Barbel caught over recent months by anglers using our popular Liver, Yeast and Robin Red-based bait.

Stewart told us that his capture of this particular fish was extremely pleasing and something of a heart-stopping affair.....

“This 11lb 10oz fish is a real specimen for the little River Thame (a tributary of the Thames), which I have recently been fishing.

Although I've had numerous bigger fish on the Kennet and other venues this one is one of the most rewarding fish I have ever caught coming from a tiny local river.

It took a Meteor paste wrapped Meteor freezer bait boilie, with the only freebies (halved Meteor boilies & Meteor pellets) introduced via a small PVA mesh bag.

The fish fought incredibly hard and went through a bush, which was waving about as the line sawed against it! The rig tubing used to protect the main line was pigtailed and damaged by the time I landed the fish, but it did its job in protecting the mainline!”

Well done on another superb result Stewart!
